

Get in the dirt & learn from the ground up.

In 1982, Allan MacCurrach went to work for Pete Dye helping build TPC Sawgrass. Since its founding in 1987, MacCurrach Golf has continued a commitment to educating and mentoring those seeking a career in the golf industry through its Assistant in Training (AIT) program.

The AIT program is a paid summer position that offers hands-on training in how a golf course and its infrastructure are built. The opportunities at MacCurrach Golf are significant. The AIT program is a great way to find out if they are for you!

The AIT Program

Ready to get started? Students of agronomy, construction management, landscape architecture or horticulture are a good fit.

But really, the only necessary qualifications are good character, a strong work ethic and a passion to learn. We can teach you the rest. The AIT program offers:

- Placement on a current project with plentiful learning opportunities.
- Comprehensive, hands-on and paid experience.
- A fun environment under an experienced project manager and alongside past AIT's.
- Housing for the duration of the position.

Build a golf course.
Build a future.
