The 85th Annual Purdue Farm Management Tour was held on June 22 & 23 in Carroll and Howard Counties. The Farm Tour included the Scott Farms and Mylet Farms in Carroll County, and Kirkpatrick Farms and Maple Farms in Howard County. There were 335 attendees at the lunch served at Maple Farms. Some of the topics discussed were succession planning, strategic planning, specialty crops, and modern technology on the farm. Attendees also had the opportunity to see the Tribine Harvester.

Welcome:

Please join us in a warm welcome to Dr. Jayson Lusk as he begins his new role as Head of the Department of Agricultural Economics. Jayson comes to us from Oklahoma State University, where he was Regents Professor and Willard Sparks Endowed Chair in the Department of Agricultural Economics. Jayson received his bachelor's degree in food technology from Texas Tech University and his PhD in agricultural economics from Kansas State University. His first academic appointment was as an assistant professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics at Mississippi State University from 2000 to 2003. He then joined the Purdue Department of Agricultural Economics as an associate professor from 2003 to 2005. He moved to Oklahoma State University in 2005.

"Introduction to Applied General Equilibrium Analysis in a Multi-Region Framework"

The Center for Global Trade Analysis, in the Department of Agricultural Economics, recently held the 25th Annual Short Course in Global Economic Analysis from July 15-20, 2017 on the campus of Purdue University.

The Annual Short Course in Global Trade Analysis is a long-standing, educational offering by the Center for Global Trade Analysis which aims to introduce participants to a standardized framework for conducting global policy analysis in an applied general equilibrium setting; to provide participants with ample hands-on training with software that has been tailored to global economic analysis; and to give participants the opportunity to interact with economists working on global trade and resource use issues while becoming part of the international GTAP Network. In total, 25 individuals from 13 different countries representing government offices, international agencies, the private sector, and academia participated in this course.

News from the Center for Food and Agribusiness:

IFAMA World Conference

The center hosted the International Food and Agribusiness Management Association's World Conference in Miami, Fla., in late June. Mike Boehlje was honored with IFAMA's Distinguished Service Award, which honors an individual whose contributions have made significant and transformational impacts on the global food and agribusiness system. Also at the conference, a Purdue graduate student team of Nathan Daninger, Jorge Barrientos, Wes Davis and Andrew Johnson placed second in the International Student Case Competition.

NACTA Award

Mike Gunderson received the 2017 John Deere Award from the North American Colleges and Teachers of Agriculture

(NACTA) during the association's July conference. The award is given jointly to a faculty member and his or her institution in recognition of outstanding programs in agricultural business, technology or management in post-secondary schools and colleges.

New Programs

The center launched two new open-enrollment professional development programs in July. Market Planning for Agri-Marketers bridges the gap between sales and marketing professionals and helps both positions fine-tune the implementation of marketing strategy. Cultivating Resilience is a leadership program focused on helping managers better handle change and overcome adversity, while also developing those capabilities in their direct reports.

Center for Commercial Agriculture

International Farm Management Congress

Jim Mintert and Michael Langemeier traveled to Scotland in July to present at the 21st International Farm Management Congress. The congress is regarded as one of the foremost international events on farming, farm management, farm technologies, farm equipment and the agricultural industry as a whole.

Top Farmer Conference

CCA's annual Top Farmer Conference has moved from summertime to winter. The 50th conference will run January 8-9 at the Beck Agricultural Center.
